New jail dedication ceremonies set Friday

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Dedication ceremonies for the new Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility are scheduled 3 p.m. Friday.

Open House for the public to inspect the new county jail.

"We have been looking forward to moving into the new facility for a long time," Peterson said.

Peterson expects the non-contact visitation stations at the new jail to greatly reduce the amount of contraband being brought in the new jail.

The new facility is designed to house 75 prisoners, a significant increase over the capacity of the old jail which was originally built in 1937 to house 15 prisoners.

Supervisors want larger boundaries

Public hearing set April 14 on county sewerage district

By DENA BISNETTE
A public hearing on a proposed county sewerage district has been set for 7 p.m. April 14 in the supervisors' boardroom of the Hancock County Courthouse.

The board voted unanimously Wednesday to accept a petition requesting that the board approve the district. Representing the petitioners was Malcolm Tullier of Shoreline Park Civic Association.

Part of Shoreline Park, Garden Isles, Jordan River Isles and Jordan River Estates are included in the first phase of the county sewerage district, with more territory to be added in later phases.

The boundaries of the district run along Highway 603, up West Twin Bayou and Bayou LaCroix to the Jordan River to Joe's Bayou Road, then parallel to Joe's Bayou Road and down Longfellow Road back to Highway 603.

Although the proposed boundaries were unanimously approved Wednesday for the purposes of the public hearing, some board members felt more territory should have been included in the original phase of the district.

Beat Four Supervisor Sam Perini said he felt some territory on the upper side of Highway 603 should be included and Beat Five Supervisor James Travira said he wanted to see the district include more of Shoreline Park.

The original phase is expected to be sewered with 65 percent U.S. Environmental Protection Agency grant funding to be obtained through the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District, Board President A.A. Keller said.

Keller added that the wastewater district plans to seek additional funds through an interest-free loan from Farmer's Home Administration.

Estimated cost for the project is $4,750,000. Board Attorney Gerald Gex said the board has the statutory authority to levy a tax on the district, but does not plan to do so at this time.

The sewerage collection system to be constructed in the four subdivisions will be the first publicly-owned system in Hancock County's unincorporated area. The only existing systems other than those in the city of Waveland and the City of Bay St. Louis and small systems at Stennis Airport and Port Bienville Industrial Park are privately owned.

The board heard no objections to the district Wednesday other than those from the supervisors themselves.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. had previously asked that the wastewater board, on which Keller is county representative, to allow the city to add a proposed subdivision on Blue Meadow Road to the Bay St. Louis system.

The wastewater board refused approval for the proposal because the subdivision is located in the proposed county district and is not already receiving city sewerage services.

Frankiewicz stated that he plans to discuss the matter at the public hearing.

In other business Wednesday, the supervisors:

—Discussed but took no action on the possibility of leasing the unused half of the old County Home and the Hancock General Hospital building, if a second advertisement fails to attract a buyer, to the Women, Infants and Children Program and the Hancock County Child Development Center;

—Accepted a donations of plants from the Bay St. Louis City Council for a landscaping project at the new Hancock County Justice Facility;

—Approved a resolution requested by Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge asking the legislature for a ban on golf net use along recreational

Stop the Dump group continues its fight

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Stop the Dump group members have vowed to continue their fight against the location of a landfill in their community.

President Janie Hockart said the number of supporters is nearly 4,000 and is growing daily.

The group is seeking to influence the Mississippi Natural Resources Permit Board to deny permits needed to operate the proposed landfill on Fire Tower Road near the Interstate 10-Mingo Avenue Exit.

Waste Management of Mississippi, Inc., has requested permit to operate a non-hazardous solid waste disposal facility on a 118-acre site in the Diamond Community, only about 1.5 miles north of the Interstate.

Although the site is located in Harrison County, it is approximately three miles from Diamondhead.

Executive Committee Member Mavis Newell said among the supporters is a group from the Diamondhead community.

At a recent hearing conducted by the permit board more than 300 people were attended, most to voice opposition to the location of the dump in the proposed site.

Hockart says Waste Management needs to find an area less densely populated to use the landfill.

Approximately 200 to 300 tons of hazardous waste are being stored in a building on the site, and Hockart says the group is seeking to influence the Mississippi Natural Resources Permit Board to deny permits needed to operate the proposed landfill on Fire Tower Road near the Interstate 10-Mingo Avenue Exit.

landfill in such close proximity to area houses will cause property values to seriously depreciate.

"We are very optimistic about a victory and are certain the permit board will see that we have very legitimate complaints," Hockart said.

"But we are continuing to work and will not quit until the issue is resolved."

Bay council okays preliminary subdivision plats

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis City Council voted Tuesday to approve a preliminary subdivision plat for a portion of Westwood Village, a community being developed by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

However, Bay Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz said he would probably veto the plat because of the proximity of the subdivision to the Jordan River.

The plat, which would divide the 100-acre Westwood Village into 100 lots, was submitted to the council by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Frankiewicz said these would be unenforceable until after the house was built and that the city should have the authority to prevent what might be a detriment to the community from being constructed.

The minutes of the meeting are expected to be submitted to Frankiewicz sometime this week and he has 10 days to veto the action.

The plat, which would divide the 100-acre Westwood Village into 100 lots, was submitted to the council by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

assured the council the paving could be completed within 30-60 days.

The council tabled a planning commission recommendation to deny a request by Norbert Kohnke for a zoning change from single-family residential 100-foot lot to single-family residential 40-foot lot.

Councilman Charles Johnson recommended the action after a lengthy discussion so the councilmen could have an opportunity to view the area in question.

Area residents appeared at the meeting to protest the zoning change stating they believed Kohnke intended to put in a small subdivision, although other owners in the area had substantially large home sites.

Planning Commission Chairman Joe Marichino said the denial had been based on the facts that no error could be found on the zoning map, no hardship could be determined and there had been no change in the neighborhood.

These are the reasons stated in the zoning ordinance which would allow for the change and the approval of this request would be spot zoning, he added.

Also during the meeting the council discussed a continuing controversy between the city and the Waveland Regional Wastewater Authority on the proposed county sewer district which would not allow

As the cooks of Old Italy have known for many a year in the kitchen and at the table, the tomato with its robust sauce is only one of many, many ways to enhance pasta of all sorts.

Many American cooks think only of the long-simmering tomato sauce as a fitting accompaniment to spaghetti—but if you've ever eaten a plate or bowl of pasta sauced only with good olive oil, garlic and freshly chopped parsley, you know how tasty these simple combinations can be.

As long as there's pasta of some sort in the cupboard, the resourceful cook need never be at a loss when faced with unexpected company or no time to cook, or the need to stretch the food budget, and so forth.

Quick to cook and serve with whatever sauce answers to your whim or what's on hand in the pantry, pasta can be a hurry up supper dish or a more elaborate "company concoction"—delicious in either guise.

For instance, to the olive oil, garlic and parsley sauce, add quickly sautéed shrimp—or oysters—or slivers of ham or chicken—or vegetables and so on.

The other day, faced with some leftover ratatouille, of which I'd grown rather weary after a couple of meals and days, and reluctant to freeze it, as I'm a fresh vegetable fancier, I warmed up the ratatouille—and the combination of the eggplant, celery, onions, tomatoes and so on with the pasta was indeed a taste treat!

On another occasion, after munching for two days on the crudites, the assorted raw vegetables left over from a cocktail tray, complete with creamy, garlicky sour cream dip, I decided to cook a sort of "pasta from the garden."

I heated the cauliflower, broccoli, carrots and celery pieces, mixed them with the just-cooked fettuccini, stirred in the sour cream business, and taking care not to let it boil, seasoned it all a bit more, and enjoyed!

Sometimes, I enjoy my thin, thin spaghetti or linguini with just butter, a little olive oil, fresh-ground pepper and freshly grated Romano cheese—try it, you may become addicted and it's so easy!

Here's a good supper dish, whether for Friday night in Lent or at other times:

LINGUINI WITH SHRIMP

Linguini, this thin, thin version of spaghetti, is one of my favorites.

1/2 cup olive oil

3 cloves garlic, halved

1 lb. linguini (or other pasta of your choice)

2 Tbsp. butter or margarine

1/4 tsp. freshly ground pepper

2 Tbsp. chopped fresh parsley (the flat-leaved Italian is better for this dish)

1 lb. shrimp (or more, according to taste and budget) shelled

Dashes of hot pepper sauce, to your taste

Heat the oil slightly, and brown the garlic, barely brown the garlic in it, then throw away the garlic—you just want the flavor. Add the shelled shrimp, sauté just a few minutes.

Meanwhile, cook the pasta al dente (to the teeth, not too cooked, of course) and add the parsley and butter to it then gently mix it all together, and enjoy! (Four to six servings.) You don't really need grated cheese for this, but add it if you wish.

Joint effort makes new jail a reality in Hancock County

Friday will be a big day for law enforcement in Hancock County with grand opening ceremonies being held for the brand new Criminal Justice Facility.

It took an all-out effort by many Hancock Countians to make the new facility a reality after being voted down several times.

We believe the new jail in Hancock County is second to no other of its size in this nation.

The security, safety and welfare of citizens of the community has been taken into consideration, as well as law enforcement officers and inmates themselves.

Just thinking back, we can recall the many Hancock County Grand Jury recommendations for a new jail to be constructed and it is now a reality.

There are many people who can take credit for Hancock County's Criminal Justice Facility, such as the elected officials from our county and cities.

The only other time we can recall such an all-out effort by citizens was for the BAWI bond issue for the Enameling Plant in Bay St. Louis many years ago.

We do not want to forget the hard work from the Jail Committee, organizations and majority of citizens of our county who worked so hard for a new jail, and now all will benefit from this modern facility.

The new Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility is for all of the citizens of the county.

Ribbon Cutting ceremonies are scheduled for 3 p.m. Friday, and Sheriff Ronnie Peterson says all citizens are invited.

An open house will continue from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day through Wednesday March 26, as the inmates will not be moved to the new facility until Friday March 27.

The week of open house is to give every citizen an opportunity of visiting the new facility before the inmates are moved.

It is hoped every citizen will take this opportunity of visiting the new facility and see how fine of a facility we now have.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—The word filtering out the federal investigation into corruption in Mississippi's county supervisor system is that as many as 150 supervisors throughout the state may be indicted as a result of the FBI's two-year sting operation.

Some close to the investigation say that two out of every five supervisors may turn up in the FBI's net.

Agents, posing as culvert and equipment salesmen, it will be remembered, pulled off the crackdown on the long-suspected system of kickbacks to the county officials.

Federal prosecutors are believed to be following a strategy of indicting around 10 to 12 persons - supervisors as well as salesmen accused of giving kickbacks - each month for the rest of the year. A total of 20, including 18 supervisors and two salesmen, have been charged in February and March.

The FBI's modus operandi in its "Operation Pretense" may be called into question as the key defense weapon of supervisors charged in the probe. It was learned last week from supervisor sources that county officials will seek to make a case on grounds they were entrapped by the agents.

While entrapment has been used successfully as a defense in several cases decided by the Mississippi Supreme Court, these are all federal, not state, cases. Apparently the "Pretense" charges will rest heavily on the Abscam cases several years back when FBI agents pulled a sting operation.

The FBI had been accused of using entrapment in Abscam, but the federal courts held otherwise.

There's no question that the FBI sortie will shake up perennially powerful county courthouse politics, since the crackdown has been timed to hit in an election year. Judging from the timetable federal prosecutors are apparently using, trials of accused supervisors will be going on in the midst of this coming summer's election campaigns.

In Oklahoma, where a similar federal crackdown on county commissioners was carried out six years ago, there was at least one instance of a commissioner being re-elected while under indictment. But he later lost his post when he was convicted.

A lot of "Good Ole Boys" are no doubt going to be caught up in the FBI net. Consequently, Mississippi now has an unparalleled opportunity to make major reforms in the entire supervisor system.

Just cosmetic or procedural changes in the way county supervisors operate, I believe, are not the answer to making county government operation more efficient and effective.

Implementation of the long-talked-about "county unit system" for road administration, purchasing and personnel management would obviously be an improvement. But in my estimation, that's not the real solution.

Based on my four decades observation of the county supervisor system in Mississippi as compared with how county government operates in most states, it's my conviction that the entire structure and the powers of the system must be changed.

The Mississippi supervisor system is fatally flawed because it does not have a built-in system of checks and balances. County supervisors here are both the executive and the legislative branch of government and at the same time serve as road commissioners. Until a few years ago, supervisors even exercised strong influence in the judicial branch of government by setting up jury lists.

Consequently, the county supervisor system in Mississippi is an anomaly in the concept of separation of powers that is basic to both the state and national governments.

Of course, the present crop of supervisors did not construct the system. It is a holdover from the last century when a supervisor was more or less an honorary position held mostly by respected farmers in the county. Their main job then was to keep the dirt roads from washing away so farmers could get their produce to the nearest railroad.

The county seat was the only government most people knew because counties were largely self-contained units.

That day no longer exists in Mississippi. State government, state highways and municipalities now provide most of the services people expect.

But the supervisor system remains virtually unchanged from the way it was a century ago.

To begin with, supervisors should be taken out of the field of administration entirely. That's not a new or radical idea. It was proposed by the Brookings Institution study way back in 1932.

A county administrator, or as some states call it, the county treasurer, should be the chief executive officer of the county, executing ordinances enacted by a part-time board of supervisors.

A road department administered by a director picked by the county administrator should direct all county road construction and maintenance. (As a check, the county road director's qualifications should be set by the Legislature, and he could be subject to confirmation by the board of supervisors.)

Will such reforms ever happen? Perhaps, if enough supervisors go to jail, they will.

Growth through experience evident on city commission

March 17, 1967
The Sea Coast Echo

Dear Editor:

Recently I attended a hearing conducted by the Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission and stayed to hear several cases besides the one concerning my immediate neighborhood.

About a year ago, I had been present at another hearing, early in the interval of service of the present board.

I was impressed this time with the careful and thorough way that the commission worked to consider applications and apply the Zoning Ordinance.

Ability to learn by experience, consistency and seriousness of purpose were evident. Recommendations made by these people probably represent, in most cases, informed and creditable opinions.

This kind of official behavior - listening, learning, acting in a reputable way - is what our small city requires if we are to keep it secure, pleasant and attractive as a place to keep a home and earn a living, at least at a cost that we can afford.

On the whole, it is steady effort and learning on the part of our mayor and city officials, workers, and volunteers that marks the present city government and can win through for us after any number of contrived, immediate issues, campaigns, and benefactors have come and gone.

The Planning and Zoning Commission, as its present membership is developing this body, seems to be becoming learned and capable. Good for them and for our city.

Dear Sir:

My husband Earl was among the first to be admitted to the new Hancock Medical Center.

The nurses in I.C.U. on the floor and everyone working in the new hospital were efficient and kind.

When my van caught on fire in front of the center on Feb. 26, I was able to escape due to the constant warnings of a lady from Waveland whose last name was Murphy.

Mr. Philip Wolfe and his office staff went out of their way to come to my aid and calm me down after the fire.

I recommend the new hospital highly and hope our citizens will at least give it a chance to serve the entire medical needs of Hancock County.

As in every new venture there are a few rough edges that must be taken care of.

With an able administrator like Mr. Philip Wolfe, I know the Hancock Medical Center will be the pride of Hancock County in the future.

Dear Sir:

In response to letters about the leash law, these are my sentiments exactly.

When my daughter read it, she said, Mother you could have written one of the other of these letters.

We have an extremely large friendly dog, about two years old, but a big baby.

She is in a fenced yard. There is not one thing mentioned that hasn't

If they persist and get her to jump the fence, they will be extremely sorry. Who then is responsible, the parents of the children or not?

I don't want trouble with my neighbors or people in this area, but I wish it would stop.

Legislative Update

A $1.5 billion highway construction program became law Thursday when the Senate easily overrode Gov. Bill Allain's veto.

The House had voted the day before to supersede the veto with one vote to spare. The 14-year project will construct more than 1,077 additional miles of roads and highways. It is partially funded by a 3.5 cent a gallon hike in taxes on gasoline and other motor fuels and a 3¢ increase in license tag fees.

This year's attempt at letting the voters decide on holding a constitutional convention also died last week.

Though constitution reform supporters in the House achieved a 59-56 majority in their try to move the measure out from the bottom of the House calendar, that was still 23 votes shy of the two-thirds vote required.

Without the boost up the calendar, the proposal died under a deadline.

Last week was the cutoff for either chambers to consider bills originating in the other house.

The Senate had voted 43-4 in January to put the measure on the November ballot. Allain has ruled out a special session on the constitution.

A farm reform bill that backers conceived was little more than a symbol of farm-state feeling to avert a showdown with President Lyndon B. Johnson's farm program. The bill was passed by the House last week.

The bill would have given the federal government authority to help farmers finance their crops as long as the government had a 50 percent interest in the land.

decrease the size of the College Board, eliminate the La. House Trustees, (who can only vote on matters affecting Old Miss), and cut the terms of college board members by three years. If passed by the House, the measure would have to be approved by the voters.

Students up to age 18 would be covered by state's compulsory school attendance law under a House-passed bill. The current limit is 11 years old. The measure would come two grades per year.

Legalized bingo for non-profit groups came closer to becoming a reality when the Senate passed a House bill legalizing the game of chance.

The House concurred with the Senate and this bill has now gone to the governor.

The Senate's old House amendment to an upper chamber bill establishing a state holiday honoring civil rights leader the late Martin Luther King Jr.

A host of other proposals were passed last week, including a measure that would have eliminated the state's official language, and an all-governor bill, which would have given the governor authority to appoint and remove judges from the bench.

The Senate also passed a bill that would have given the governor authority to appoint and remove judges from the bench.

Weekly state crop report

Agricultural damage in Jones County
tops $7 million

MISSISSIPPI STATE—In the aftermath of the tornado, agricultural officials throughout the state teamed together to assess the damage and provide help to stunned Jones County farmers and others.

The estimated agricultural damage is more than $7 million with more than 100 farm families being directly effected by the tornado, said James Minor, Jones County Extension agent with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Estimates released from an agricultural committee organized to assess the damage indicate 251 farm buildings were damaged or destroyed, including farm homes.

"There were a lot of timber acres in the area the tornado hit," Minor said. "We estimate about 12,000 acres of timberland were either damaged or destroyed."

According to the Mississippi Forestry Commission, total forestry damage was $3.2 million.

"We believe as much as 25 percent of this may be salvageable through pulpwood harvest," Minor said. "We have already begun getting information to timber growers and working with them to salvage as much timber as possible."

Poultry operations in the country also were hard hit by the storm, with 26 poultry houses damaged or destroyed.

"Clean-up has been steady and most of the surviving animals, including poultry and cattle, have been gathered and sent to processing or market," Minor said.

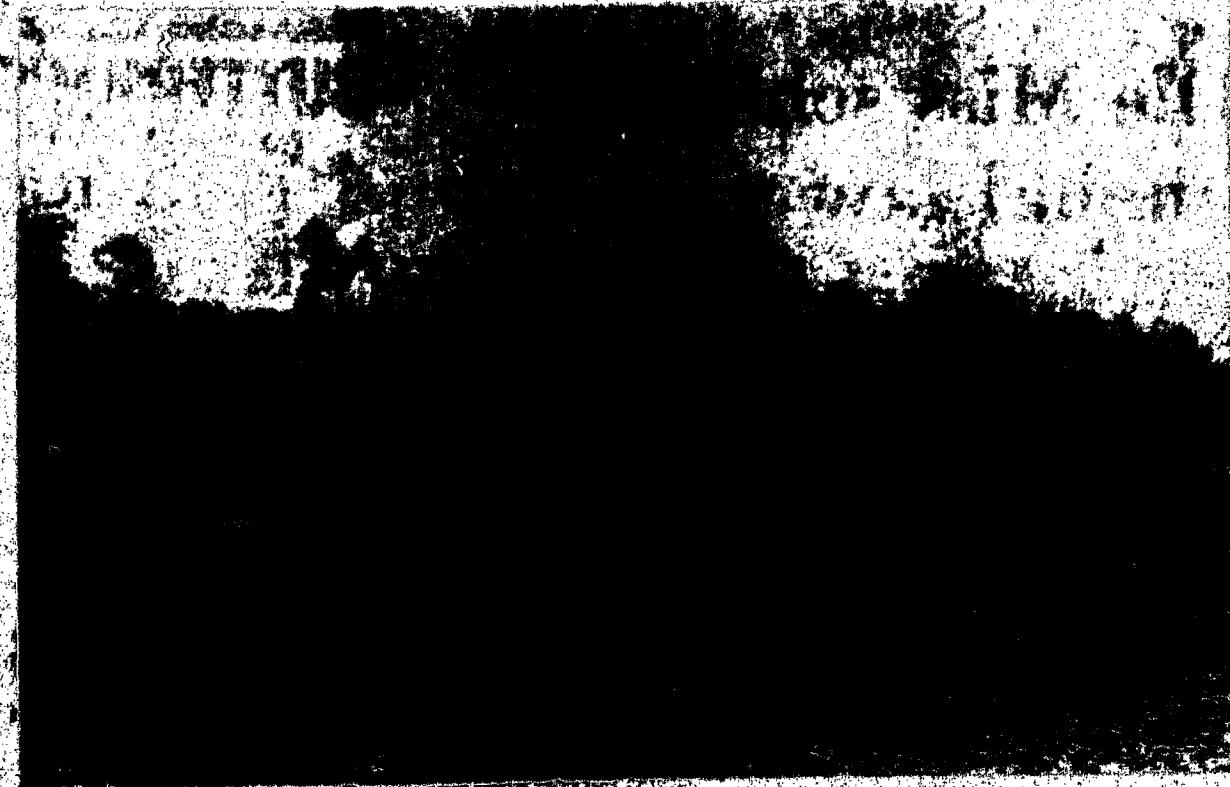

Extension staffs from Jones and adjoining counties have been providing disaster information and helping producers secure feed sources and markets to sell their surviving livestock.

"We have been trying to identify each individual farm that sustained damage and offer assistance," Minor said.

Health Hotline

Q: You're going to think this is a pretty silly reason to write but I'm worried about something and I don't know who else to ask. My husband has quit smoking after being told by his doctor that his lungs were damaged badly and he might end up needing oxygen all the time.

Of course, I am thrilled that he has quit after two packs a day for 25 years but here is the problem. The doctor gave him a prescription for a special gum with nicotine called "Nicorette" to help him get off the cigarettes but now he's hooked on the gum!

He chews two or three packs every day but I'm afraid to say anything for fear he'll start smoking again. Is it possible to be hooked on Nicorette? The stuff costs more than cigarettes.

A: Sure is. Nicotine is a highly addictive substance and there is little doubt that your husband is physically dependent on it. On balance, however, I'd say he's a lot better off with this addiction than his previous one.

Ideally, he should try to taper off the Nicorette but, if he has to start smoking again to do it the ballgame is lost. Tell your husband my hat is off to him for quitting smoking after 25 years of two packs a day but he should try to be moderate with his use of the gum.

Q: I hope you can help me find the answer to my problem. I smoke badly and it's very uncomfortable for both my husband and me. I don't have high blood pressure and am not overweight but, as soon as I go to sleep, I start sneezing. I ordered a soft collar called "snore-no-more" but it doesn't help. Do you have any answers?

A: When you mentioned your normal weight and blood pressure, you seriously reduced my arsenal of cures for snoring. Apparently, you've read in past "Health Hotlines" about weight and blood pressure reduction curing snoring.

If you smoke, quit. Also, of course, there is the standard advice to sleep on your stomach. If these measures don't work, consider a visit to an ENT doctor. He might find something unusual about your nasal apparatus which could be corrected. Sorry you wasted your money on the "snore-no-more" collar. Don't throw it away, though. It looks from the picture as though it might be handy if you ever have a "whip-lash" injury to the neck.

ACCREDITATION
School accreditation and some of the ways that Mississippi schools are measured for effectiveness will be featured in the ETV program this week. The program, which is part of the "Education: The Way Up" series, will be broadcast

Friday, March 20, at 2:30 p.m. "Education: The Way Up," which is produced by Mississippi ETV, looks at innovative and successful programs in Mississippi schools and at some of the ways that education is improving in the state.

A mini-documentary included in the program is a profile of a principal at a school that has been judged very effective in teaching its pupils. Juliet Borden, principal of East Amory Elementary School, is shown at work during one day. Far from being shut away in an office, Borden interacts constantly with pupils and teachers.

Following the mini-documentary, a panel of experts discuss accreditation and effective schools. The panel consists of Albert Broadway, superintendent of DeSoto County schools; Joyce Thompson, principal of West Side Elementary School in Piquette; and Loretta Shannon, administrative assistant at Western Line Consolidated Schools.

WORLD RECORD
Many Mississippi schools are participating in an event expected to set a world record for the largest concert ever. The event is scheduled for noon, Thursday, March 19, when participants and viewers will tune their TV sets to Mississippi ETV.

At that time, across the country, thousands of school choruses, bands and orchestras - and individuals, too - will join together in playing and singing the same concert program at the same time. The event has been planned to focus national attention on the importance of music education in schools.

Be Smart-Don't Start program to begin in elementary schools

Elementary schools in Mississippi are preparing to implement a new drug abuse prevention project later this month.

"Be Smart, Don't Start-Just Say No!" is a statewide project developed by DREAM, the Drug Research and Education Association in Mississippi, Incorporated.

A free packet of activities and materials has been mailed to any teacher of students in grades K-6 who has requested it.

"The response has been outstanding," said Project Director, Terrie Ainsworth. "We have already shipped over 5,000 packets, with some 350 schools participating."

"I would encourage schools who want to participate to make their request as soon as possible while supplies last," stated Ainsworth.

The project will ultimately involve 6,000 classrooms and nearly 200,000 Mississippi children. Drug abuse prevention activities begin with "Be Smart" Week on March 16, 1987 and culminate with the simultaneous release of many thousands of balloons on "Just Say No!" Day, April 3.

"It is exciting to see communities across our state coming together to make a strong statement against drug abuse," commented Project Director Ainsworth.

"In places like Oxford, Clarksdale, and Biloxi the whole town seems to be participating! Many businessmen and civic groups have become sponsors and are providing t-shirts or buttons for the students. In addition, some junior and senior high schools have joined in the 'Just Say No! Week' activities as well."

"The project is not limited to Mississippi alone," Ainsworth further commented. "Classroom activities and the balloon release are also being completed by all of the elementary schools in Alabama and coordinated by the Mobile Bay Area Partnership for Youth."

Funding for the development of the Mississippi project is being provided by the Alcohol and Drug Abuse Division of the State Department of Mental Health. Balloons are being provided by the Highway Safety Division of the Governor's Office of Federal State Programs.

Balloon distribution is coordinated by the Law Enforcement Coordinating Committees of Mississippi, chaired by Southern District United States Attorney George Phillips and Northern District United States Attorney Bob Whitwell.

Additional project assistance has been provided by the members of the Executive Prevention Committee of Mississippi.

REAL VIEWS ON REAL ESTATE

IMPACT OF 99TH CONGRESS ON REAL ESTATE

Q: In addition to the tax reform act, what other legislation was passed by Congress this year that has a direct impact on real estate? T.H., Gulfport

A: Dear T.H.:

No doubt the 99th Congress will be remembered for passing a mammoth overhaul of the federal tax code. However, it will also be remembered for a wide variety of actions taken that also affect real estate.

First, Congress assured the FHA mortgage insurance program of uninterrupted operation through the current fiscal year which ends September 30, 1987. In years past, FHA operations have been temporarily interrupted prior to an extension of the program.

Fundamental homeownership provisions remains intact after passage of tax reform. The final tax plan approved by Congress preserved the deductibility of mortgage interest for first and second homes, along with the deductibility of local property taxes.

Members of the 99th Congress will also be known for passing the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit-reduction law and operating for the first year under the new constraints it placed on the federal-budget approval process.

Congress approved water resources legislation authorizing more than $10 billion for port construction and flood control projects by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Congress included amendments authorizing federal

ETV Brief

HOLLYWOOD MYTH

In television dramas, businessmen characters make a lot of money, but these fictional megabuck characters sometimes seem to succeed on sleaze alone - they sometimes don't work hard or produce useful products.

TV depicts these businessmen and businesswomen as people who lie, cheat, steal, blackmail or even murder to further their enterprises.

Whatever happened to the American dream of a better life through an honest and hard day's work? What influence will television's definition of commercial success have on the future of American business?

Hosted by Eli Wallach, a new documentary on ETV explores possible answers to these questions and takes a look at television's role in creating a negative image of the business world.

"Hollywood's Favorite Heavy" can be seen at 10 p.m. Wednesday, March 25, on Mississippi ETV.

Interviews with screenwriters, journalists, producers, network executives, TV critics and others provide a number of theories explaining the genesis and status of the media picture of business.

Hollyhock, Moore and Franks. Most of the seminars are scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

On Saturday morning, seminars for the weekend will continue. Sessions for the annual Law Weekend at the Oxford campus will begin on Friday.

On Saturday morning at 8:30 a.m., the University of Mississippi State Bar Association's seminars will meet. Law Weekend seminars will be the topic of Saturday's 1:30 p.m. baseball game between Ole Miss and Missouri.

On Thursday at 5:30 p.m., a reception is planned at the Oxford Holiday Inn for early arrivals. Those staying over until Sunday may attend the 1:30 p.m. Ole Miss-Missouri baseball game free by showing their Law Weekend nametags.

The Turner Complex will welcome Law Weekend guests on Saturday, March 21, from 1-4 p.m. for jogging, racquetball or swimming. Campus tennis courts may also be used and, for green fees, guests may use the University Golf Course.

Urolab adds another dimension to SMH

Imagine the technological difference between snapshots and moving pictures. It's a difference as big as this that makes fluoroscopy an exciting medical addition at Slidell Memorial Hospital and Medical Center.

This complicated equipment allows physicians to see, with moving X-ray images inside a patient while working on that patient. The machine, a Siemens Urolab, is used primarily for removing kidney stones. However, this equipment can be used for many kinds of procedures that might otherwise be performed through surgery or in the catheterization lab, such as hystograms for women, inserting Hickman catheters in cardiac patients, and inserting pacemakers.

The Siemens Urolab employs fluoroscopy to give surgeons a constantly changing view of the procedure they are performing. With it, surgeons can reduce the amount of time needed for many procedures, often by as much as a half. In addition, the use of continuous X-ray pictures actually cuts down on the amount of radiation the patient receives.

An added benefit is that patients recover from their procedures more quickly because the surgeon does not need to open the abdomen to find the kidney stone or other object.

Described as state-of-the-art equipment by the surgeons and nurses who use it, the Siemens Urolab cost over $300,000. Slidell Memorial Hospital installed the equipment in a new urological/surgical suite and began using it Jan. 19. More than a dozen procedures were scheduled in the suite during the first week of operation alone.

The equipment includes a movable patient table that enables the surgeon to maneuver the patient into any position necessary for the procedure. This feature adds to the patient's comfort while decreasing the amount of time needed for a procedure because the patient does not have to be physically lifted and moved. The urolab provides, through computer-generated images, a moving X-ray that displays for the surgeon the location of the kidney stone (or other object) as well as the location of his instruments. In this way, the surgeon can guide the instruments to the necessary spot more quickly than if he had to depend on a series of still X-rays taken periodically during the procedure.

The urolab can store up to 25 freeze-frame pictures in its computer for later study, and can turn those stored images into polaroid pictures for permanent files.

For more information about fluoroscopy and the urological/surgical suite, call Slidell Memorial Hospital at 643-2200.

Area 3 Special Olympics events, golf tourney set

Area 3, Mississippi Special Olympics will open this year's competition Friday with bowling at Gulfport.

The bowling competition begins at 9 a.m. at Triangle Lanes and is expected to attract about 290 athletes from Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River and Stone counties, Area 3 Director Charles Cruthirds said.

The next event scheduled is an April 8 basketball competition at Jeff Davis Junior College gymnasium, which will also begin at 9 a.m.

"We are looking at about 250 to 300 athletes for this event," Cruthirds said.

A track and field day for Area 3 will be held in Hancock County at NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories.

The Naval Oceanographic Office at NSTL will be co-sponsoring the April 25 event, which will also include Area 12 (Jackson County).

About 450 to 525 kids are expected to participate. Competition will begin at 9 a.m.

In addition to competition, the track and field day will also include several fun events sponsored by Navocean.

Cruthirds said most of the funds for the Area 3 events will be raised by a celebrity golf tournament March 28 at Millbrook Golf and Country Club in Piquette.

Celebrities to be featured include several New Orleans Saints and other NFL players, as well as coaches and sportscasters from New Orleans television stations.

Tee time will be noon and the tournament will have a scramble format. Entry fee is $40.

Cruthirds may be contacted for more information at 662-2923, ext. 303, or 632-1258.

SSC tennis season underway

The St. Stanislaus Varsity Tennis team, under the direction of Head Coach Myron Labat, is ready and eager to begin this year's tennis schedule.

In addition to the regular District matches with Hancock North Central and St. Martin, the Rockchaws have added to their schedule such perennial powerhouses as Gulfport, Pascagoula and Ocean Springs.

Veteran players Steve Bouis and Marco Lau are expected to handle the "doubles" chores this season, while eighth-grader Philip Pratt will be tested at the "singles" spot.

Several players including David Bourgeois, Terry LeBourgeois, Tom Cook, and Scott Comeaux will compete for the chance to represent St. Stanislaus at the "mixed doubles" position.

"Though it will be tough for us to improve on last year's 10-1 record, we will strive for excellence," Coach Labat stated.

Coach Labat was honored last season as Coach of the Year, so the Varsity Rockchaws have begun a fine tradition of winning on the tennis court.

In the SSC Mardi Gras Tennis Tournament held two weeks ago, the following won titles in their respective divisions:

—Boys' 14 Division - Anthony Sperance defeated Noah Denson 6-4, 6-2

—Boys' 14 Doubles Division - Louis Rugarcia and Jose Gutierrez

—Men's 18 Division - Philip Pratt defeated Steve Bouis

—Men's 18 Doubles Division - Steve Bouis and Marco Lau.

St. Stanislaus Baseball Team off to 1-3 start

After a convincing 14-1 bombing of Pass High in the opening game of the season, the St. Stanislaus Rockchaw Baseball squad has dropped two ballgames to St. John and one to Bay High.

In the Pass Christian game, the Rocks exploded for eight runs in the top of the first inning over Pass High, starting pitcher Rocky Humphrey. The Rocks added single runs in the second and third innings to increase their lead to 14-1. A four-run explosion in the top of the fourth inning put the Rocks ahead 18-1. In the fifth, the Pirates scored three runs to cut the Rocks' lead to 15-1.

Leading off the bottom of the first, the Rocks scored two runs on a single by Rocky Rhodes and Joe Walsh each with one out.

YaSin Shabazz scored twice for the Rocks, while Jay Artigues, Bert Dean, Lloyd Micaud, Greg Schmitt, William Scarborough, and John Endom each scored a run.

Leadoff man Terrance Dedaux of Pass Christian scored the Pirates' only run.

The Rocks ran into a very talented St. John baseball team March 5 when the Rocks traveled to Gulfport to play the Eagles. The Eagles won the contest 5-0, behind the two-hit pitching of Norris Hopkins and Snopoli.

Jay Artigues of SSC was on base all three times he came to bat, but could not be advanced around the bases by his teammates. Cedric Smith doubled in the top of the seventh for the Rocks' only other hit of the game.

St. John scored twice in the bottom of the first inning, but lead-off hitter Evans was called out for failing to touch third base. The Eagles added two more in the bottom of the second inning, and Snopoli scored the Eagles' fifth run in the bottom of the fourth inning.

On March 10 the Rocks met cross-town rival Bay High at Tiger field. After the score was tied 7-7 going into the bottom of the sixth inning, the Tigers exploded for seven more runs to defeat the Rockchaws 14-7.

Jay Artigues scored in the top of the first for the Rocks, and Glen Rose tied the score in the bottom of the first for the Tigers.

The Rocks regained the lead in the top of the second when Cedric Smith singled and later scored on a single by Scott Heitzmann. SSC added two more runs in the top of the third inning as Rocky Rhodes and William Scarborough scored for the Rocks.

Bay High came back to score four runs in the bottom of the fourth inning to take a 7-6 lead over the Rockchaws. T. Haynes, Jesse Logan, Brian Laneaux and Mike Strong all scored for the Tigers.

The Rocks could not score in the top of the sixth, but the Tigers put seven runs on the scoreboard as Brian Laneaux led off with a single, and Strong was safe on an error. Twelve Tigers came to bat in the sixth inning.

SSC could not mount any attack in the last inning, and the Tigers prevailed 14-7.

On Friday, March 13, St. John this past Friday, the Rocks gave St. John six runs in the first two innings of the contest before SSC settled down to play baseball. The Rockchaw pitching staff walked six men in the first two innings, and St. John stole several bases to put men into scoring position.

SSC came alive in the bottom of the sixth inning as YaSin Shabazz led off with a single and later scored on Scott Heitzmann's single. The inning ended when Bert Dean filed out to the first baseman and Scarborough grounded out to the shortstop.

The Rocks fought back in the bottom of the last inning with three runs, scored by Shabazz, Smith, Louis Schmitt and Rocky Rhodes, but the rally fell one run short as St. John held on for a 6-5 victory.

UNUSUAL FISH—Glen Morante of Hancock County caught this three-pound, one-ounce white bass in a small pond in a valley. Although not a record size, this fish does not commonly occur in South Mississippi, according to Mike Buchanan, fisheries biologist with the Bureau of Marine Resources. Buchanan said in addition to the fish not being a usual occurrence in this area, it is even more unusual for it to be found in a small pond. The white bass are mainly found in large reservoirs and lakes, he said. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

Bassin' with the pros

by Trey Foerster

Big bass get ticked off...and caught!

On several occasions, I have often wondered about the most important question in the universe known to man—Who gets more angry and frustrated: The fisherman or the fish?

As I'm sure Dale Carnegie would preach anger can be a real detriment to one's well-being when not properly channeled to achieve something positive.

Now the bass is not prone to a fast burn, but most bass pros admit that there is a definite kettle of steam percolating within the bass that can unleash itself in a whirl of water.

Don't be fooled by those lunkers that seem to sit there with the patience of Ghandi...when properly tormented, they can be downright vicious!

My favorite times to specifically go out and anger bass are after a near miss when I've encountered a whopper, or when the bass appear to have "lock jaw." I'll have to admit, as much as I enjoy being outdoors in the scenery and tranquility, I do like the respectful adversarial relationship I have with bass.

What the bassman needs more than a Johnson spoon is patience. It's hard for me to stick with a spot for over 20 casts, but there have been occasions where it took over 70 casts to irritate a lunker.

What keeps me going and interested is a self-induced challenge to see how accurately I can cast to the same spot time and time again. What if you were sitting in your chase lounge and the local juvenile delinquent kept throwing stones at you? How long would it take you to get ticked off? That's the principle at work with the bass.

Some pros prefer one bait over another in their attempts to anger bass. Some point to crank baits or buzz baits.

"As far as top water baits, Zara Spooks or a Big Jumper type with blades on each side is a good reflex bait that seems to anger them pretty mad," cites Guido Hildebrand, member of the Johnson Outboard Pro Team.

A Big Chugger (a Johnson Spook they sometimes call it) is a good bait for that if the bass are in the beds. A crank bait, if you crank it down on their beds or into the area where they are suspended, is also good.

A great big eight or nine-inch worm, sometimes, does the trick when bass are on the bed of a bushy-type tree. Just keep putting the lure on top of the bass and they usually just knock the heck out of it.

Hildebrand also adds one more piece of advice: Try not to spook off the bass. If he keeps his ground and you maintain your patience, the bass will usually become tormented enough to eventually hit the lure.

Have a question you'd like a bass pro to answer? Jot it down and mail it to "Bassin' with the Pros" at this newspaper. An answer to your question will appear in a future column.

NOAA grant supports fishery resource development

The Gulf Coast Research Laboratory (GCRL) has received a grant from the U.S. Department of Commerce, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration-National Marine Fisheries Service for $114,000.

These funds are to support Mississippi's participation in the Southeast Area Monitoring and Assessment Project (Seamap) is a subcommittee of the Technical Coordinating Committee of the Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission.

The purpose of the Seamap Subcommittee is to plan and carry out fishery-independent surveys aimed at providing data for fisheries management and development of new fishery resources in the Gulf.

Richard S. Waller of the GCRL staff is Mississippi's representative on the Seamap Subcommittee and will coordinate the project.

The funds will support GCRL personnel in planning and coordinating fishery-independent surveys.

The surveys will provide information on the distribution and abundance of critical life history stages of major gulf species and associated environmental parameters in waters nearshore and offshore of Mississippi and eastern Louisiana.

The GCRL research vessel Tommy Munro will participate in several cruises in support of this project.

The funds also provide support for the Seamap Invertebrate Archiving Center which is housed at GCRL's J.L. Scott Marine Education Center at the Biloxi campus.

Runners clinic set at Touro

GCRL funded for fisheries monitoring, assessment

Gulf Coast Research Laboratory has been awarded a grant for $134,805 for continuing support of the Laboratory's Mississippi Gulf Coast Fisheries Monitoring and Assessment Program.

This project is being conducted by the Fisheries Division personnel and consists of six separate jobs:

1) a finfish sampling task to assess adult finfish studies in Mississippi Sound and adjacent water with emphasis on spotted seatrout, red drum, and striped mullet;

2) monitoring and assessment of environmental data and representatives of commercial species of marine shellfish (except oysters);

3) oyster reef monitoring and assessment to determine the number of live oysters, marketable oysters, spawnable oysters and the incidence of diseases and predators to predict periodically subsequent oyster production from each major reef;

4) assessment of factors affecting the abundance of postlarval and juvenile brown shrimp in the Biloxi Bay Estuarine System;

5) monitoring of white shrimp postlarvae in coastal Mississippi waters;

6) initiation of an intensive tagging study of striped mullet in an effort to determine the size and structure of the mullet population in Mississippi.

The results of these studies will be provided to the Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources for the management of Mississippi fisheries and to the National Marine Fisheries Service.

Realtors to sponsor art poster contest

The West Gulf Coast Board of Realtors invites all first through sixth grade students to participate in a children's art poster contest as part of American Home Week, a realtor-sponsored celebration of Americans' right to own property.

Boards of realtors throughout the United States participate in this annual observance to promote the idea that the freedom to own real property is one of the cornerstones of the free enterprise system.

This year the area board has taken the Salvation Army Transient Lodge as its project to help with maintenance and repairs.

There are many activities provided through the contest.

The purpose of the poster contest is to help children understand the meaning of home ownership and why it is important to own property with respect. The contest is open to all children in the area, and the posters will be displayed on the poster boards at the transient lodge in the community.

A few suggestions for a theme may be portraying the importance of treating property with respect, how one feels about their home, or how neighborhoods would look if everyone cared - or didn't care - about their property.

Poster classes are to be broken down into two categories: first through third grade and fourth through sixth grade. A representative from each school will select a first place winner from each grade category to be submitted for judging.

The board will reward each child whose entry has been selected to represent their age category and exhibit these entries to the public during American Home Week April 26-May 2 at the Gulfport City Library in downtown Gulfport.

Exceptionally well executed art projects will be awarded as follows: First prize - a $50 savings bond and a Coke and Pizza Party will be given in honor of the winner for his/her entire class at their school; runner-up - a $50 savings bond. All other finalists will be awarded a ribbon for their entry.

Individual children may participate by submitting their poster to a drop-off location.

Rules for "American Home Week" Art Poster Contest sponsored by the West Gulf Coast Board of Realtors, Inc. are:

1. This Art Poster Contest is open to students in Grades one through six in every elementary and middle school, public, private, and parochial, within the West Gulf Coast Board of Realtors' jurisdiction (boundaries being Pearl River east up to and including Gulfport).

2. To ensure fair competition, entries will be judged at two grade level classifications: One through three and four through sixth.

3. Posters must portray an aspect of home ownership, or the value of this ownership. Only one entry per student may be submitted.

4. Entries may be rendered in any art medium and should not exceed 12" by 18". Posters can be a classroom project or may be done at home without parental assistance. All entries must designate name, school and grade legibly on the front.

5. All entries must be submitted to designated drop-off locations no later than Monday, April 15, 1987, 5 p.m. A list of drop-off locations is listed below.

6. There will be two winners in each grade-level classification.

The Grand Prize winner will receive a $50 Savings Bond and a Coke and Pizza Party given in his/her honor for the entire class at their school.

The Runner-up prize winner will receive a $50 Savings Bond. All finalists chosen by the participating schools will be awarded ribbons.

7. The winning posters will be chosen from those selected by each school as their entries. Only one poster per grade classification per school. Winners will be determined by a panel of judges whose decision is final.

8. All entries become the property of the West Gulf Coast Board of Realtors, which may publicize, display, or exhibit them as it sees fit.

9. The immediate families of the current members of the West Gulf Coast Board of Realtors are not eligible to enter this contest.

10. Winners will be announced Friday, April 23, 1987.

DROP-OFF LOCATIONS

Consumer Update

Part two in a series about renting

By Janet E. Lukens
Coast Consumer
Management Center

Now that you've set goals for yourself as a landlord and criteria for your prospective tenants, you're ready to prepare rental advertisements and screen the responses.

Keep in mind that advertising for tenants too close to your departure date can create enormous stress and hinder the careful selection of a good tenant.

It's been suggested that you prequalify tenants by phone before showing the property (for this reason advertisements shouldn't indicate the address).

During this screening, you can determine when the tenant can move in; whether he has enough money to afford the rent; whether the number of tenants falls within your standards; and whether the tenant conflicts with any of your prohibitions.

Obtain information about prospective tenants by using a rental application. Don't ask for a deposit until you have verified employment, credit information, and references from past landlords.

To do so would lead a tenant to think they have rented your home. However, if a tenant seems to meet all your requirements, secure a deposit at the time of application to avoid losing a good prospect.

Before allowing a tenant to move in, it is wise to collect the security deposit (usually one month's rent), the first and last month's rent. The last month's rent guarantees that you will get at least 30 days' notice if they don't plan to renew and no attempt will be made to apply the security deposit to the last month's rent.

A welcome letter, given to the tenant upon occupancy, explains the rental agreement and how everything in the home works. It should also spell out what repairs you and the tenant are responsible for. Some agreements make the tenant responsible for repairs under a certain amount of money.

This is not recommended, however, because in an effort to save money, tenants may try to make repairs themselves and fail. Urge tenants to call you when something needs repairing and inspect your home annually to correct anything needing attention.

If you should have tenant problems, be firm. Nonpayment of rent should never be tolerated, and your rental agreement should provide for late charges on overdue rent. The law should be maintained regularly or the landlord may have the work done by a professional and deduct expenses from the security deposit. Any potentially adverse communication with your tenants should be in writing and sent by certified mail in the event legal action should become necessary.

A rental agreement which normally runs month-to-month versus a lease which has fixed duration is a good edge against tenant problems. You have less long-term protection with a month-to-month, but it gives both you and the tenant a 30-day out if there's a conflict.

If you want to get an unsatisfactory tenant to leave, you should first try to have the tenant give notice on his own. If that doesn't work, point out the provision of your rental agreement that has been violated, refuse to accept the deposit, and keep copies of all correspondence. Avoid legal action at all costs. Even if you win a judgment, you may still lose.

If you let your tenants know exactly what is expected of them, communicate regularly by phone or letter, keep good records and be consistent, you will have satisfied tenants, satisfied neighbors and a stress-free positive landlord-tenant relationship.

Use charge policy set on PRC buildings

The Pearl River College Board of Trustees has approved a facility use charge.

Outside organizations requesting use of the Pearl River College facilities such as the Moody Hall Auditorium, Marvin R. White Coliseum, and Doble Holden Stadium, will now be charged in accordance to the formally adopted rate per hour fee.

Ron Holmes, PRC's business manager, said the usage charge will only cover the basic costs of utilities, custodial services and a supervisory fee.

Charges will be based on the classification of the requesting organization.

Classification will include non-profit organizations of which a scale is broken down for those who charge and those who do not charge for admission.

Class Two is for profit organizations which charge admission for profit through a non-profit organization.

Use of the Pearl River College Cafeteria must be by agreement with the cafeteria manager at rates determined by the manager.

"We want the outside public to continue using our facilities," said Dr. Ted J. Alexander, president of the college. "However, we needed a formal, written policy covering each facility usage."

For more information, organizations are requested to contact the Office of Student Affairs at 601-796-6661, ext. 215.

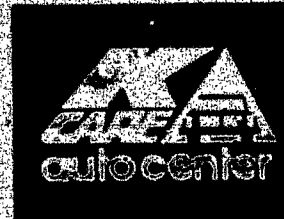

In other action by the PRC Board, President Alexander was given the authority to proceed with construction of a new building and planning for the future of the college and surrounding area.

The lowest and best bid was approved for the purchase of these facilities and the construction of the building.

The board also approved and reinstated the Presidential Selection Committee to organize and implement plans for the official inauguration of Dr. Alexander as the ninth president of Pearl River College, Sunday, May 3 at 2 p.m. was chosen as the date for the formal event.

The PRC Board also adopted a resolution commending Dr. Alexander on his inclusion in the "Executive Educator" and the "American School Board Journal," two publications serving the 30,000 educational community throughout the nation.

The January Claim Docket of $66,312 was approved.

Approximately 570 candidates for doctoral, specialist, masters and bachelors degrees participated in fall commencement exercises at the University of Southern Mississippi Dec. 19.

Hancock County candidates for graduation include: Michelle Marie Bourgeois, Michael Dakin Fitzgerald, Hope Chuliche Kergosien, Mark Stephen Ladner, Lyle Mark Landry and Kelly S. Paul, bachelor of science; Robert J. Fayard Jr., bachelor of music education; and Stephen Wingo Haas and Patrick James Kergosien, bachelor of science in business administration.

Arboretum exhibit traces local history

An exhibit entitled "A Story of Man and the Land," a history of the Piney Woods region of Mississippi, is now on display at The Crosby Arboretum office in Piquette.

Richly illustrated with early maps and photographs, the exhibit traces the man/land relationship of the region from prehistory to present. Research was provided by scholars from Mississippi's universities and other consultants, and the project was financially assisted by the National Endowment for the Humanities through the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities.

Seven panels, entitled, "The Geologic Past," "Early Man," "European Intervention," "Nineteenth Century Land Use," "The Timber Boom," "Cutover Land and Experimentation," and "The Crosby Arboretum Today" depict the story of South Mississippi through the ages.

An accompanying brochure tracing garden history parallel to that of the arboretum provides a focus on major issues of land use and garden design.

A traveling version of the exhibit is available to libraries, schools, and museums upon request. For more information contact The Crosby Arboretum, 1801 Goodyear Boulevard, Piquette, MS 39466 or call (601) 798-6961.

HNC forms MATAG chapter

Parents of students enrolled in the Honors Program at Hancock North Central met in the home of Tony and Chris Caston in Dedeaux to form a local association Chapter of MATAG, (Mississippi Association for Talented and Gifted).

The officers elected were: president - Tony Caston; secretary - Donette Lee; treasurer - Linda Page; and publicity chairman P. Linda McKay.

The goals of MATAG are to serve the state of Mississippi in development and improvement of programs for the talented and gifted by keeping parents, teachers, institutions of higher learning, and community aware of the need to provide appropriate experiences for these students.

The dissemination of ideas on programs, projects, and research of the talented and gifted, encourage local chapter organizations throughout the state to find and develop facilities for the talented and gifted of their communities, and provide activities for children, such as field trips, parties and picnics just for fun, providing speakers of interest for the children, to name a few.

Hancock North Central, alone, has over 20 students in the honor program. Mississippi is one of the 7 states that spends over $5,000,000 on the above-average students, yet the program is not mandated by law.

Anyone interested in obtaining more information, or joining the local chapter organization, may contact Tony or Chris Caston, 254-2496, or write to Hancock North Central High School.

Hancock County Exchange Club Lists Students of the Month

DAVID M. FOURGEOS, a senior at St. Stanislaus, is the February Student of the Month for the Hancock County Exchange Club. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Engelmann of Waveland.

KRISTY KIDD of Waveland is January's Student of the Month. The Hancock County Exchange Club honors one student monthly. A senior at Bay Senior High School, Miss Kidd is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kidd.

ALCEIN SCHWABACHER is Hancock County Exchange Club's December Student of the Month. She attends Our Lady Academy and is the daughter of Mrs. Sherry Schwabacher.

Come one, come all—but only if it happens to be summer

HATTIESBURG—At the present, a non-resident student who attends a four-year, state-supported university in Mississippi will pay about $600 per semester in out-of-state fees.

That is, if the student enrolls for either fall or spring semester. If enrollment is for summer term, there is no non-resident fee. The out-of-stater pays only the general tuition fee that is charged all students.

Is this now-you-pay-it, now-you-don't policy purely arbitrary or is there a sound economic reason for it? The economics of the situation justifies the practice.

A university must provide a sufficient number of buildings and classroom seats to accommodate the number of students who choose to enroll the fall and spring terms. Allowing non-resident students to enroll at such times requires additional physical facilities and therefore justifies the add-on of non-resident fees.

Summer term enrollment is typically less than half of what it is during the "regular" terms, so enrollment of out-of-state students can be accommodated without additional expense. In fact, since they pay general tuition in summer, their presence adds to university revenue with little addition to cost. Any time a university (or a business firm) has an opportunity to add to its revenue without adding to its cost, it had better take advantage of the situation.

Two 10" cheese pizzas for $6.49 plus 99¢ for each additional two pizza topping

2 SMALL CHEESE PIZZAS $6.49

Doubles
Two pizzas for one special price

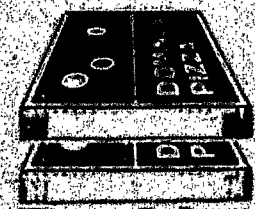

Order two 10" cheese pizzas and pay just $6.49 plus tax. If you desire additional toppings, you pay only 99¢ for each additional topping on both pizzas. If you desire pepperoni on the first pizza and fresh sausage on the second pizza, you pay just $7.48 plus tax. No coupon necessary.

SAVE $1.40

Doubles
Two pizzas for one special price

Order one large ExtravaganZZa and you get the works, 9 toppings, you also get a large two topping pizza such as pepperoni and extra cheese, get both 14" large pizzas for only $14.19 plus tax. That's a savings of $1.40 on the regular price of $15.59.

Doubles
Two pizzas for one special price

Domino's Pizza Doubles is two pizzas for one special price. You can choose from two sizes of Domino's Pizza Doubles. Two 14", which is 24 slices, or two 10", which is 16 slices.

You can have two 10" 8 slice pizzas for $6.99 plus tax and 99¢ for each additional two pizza topping. Prices do not include sales tax.

The LARGE pizza Doubles is an exceptionally good buy. Two 14" pizzas are almost exactly twice as large as two 10" pizzas, so the LARGE Doubles gives you almost 100% more pizza for under 60% additional cost.

Mix & Match
Your two Doubles pizzas do not have to be identical. For example, if you order a pizza with two toppings, and the other (same size) pizza with four toppings, you will be charged the price of a three topping Doubles order.

Quality Ingredients
Our pizzas are custom made with only the freshest ingredients (never frozen) and 100% real cheese.

Full Portions
On a 10" pizza we use 20-22 slices of pepperoni. On a 14" pizza we use 39-41 slices of pepperoni, not skimpy portions like other stores.

Flavor
We use nine secret herbs and spices in our sauce to give your pizza a delicious, distinctive Domino's Pizza taste.

Hot Pizza
We use a crush proof corrugated insulated pizza box (not a bag) with each and every pizza. When Domino's Pizza delivers we use specially designed insulated pouches on each and every order.

Free Delivery
Your pizza from Domino's Pizza will be delivered to your door by our friendly professional drivers at no additional cost to you. For 25 years we have never charged for delivery.
